Dedication...

Who Cares?

The 1968 Arrowhead is dedicated to a group of young men who risk their lives every day in a small Asian country, fighting an undeclared war so that people they don't know can be free.

Many of these young men, and I say men for they ceased to be boys when they loaded their guns and knew it was "for real," did not choose to go to that small Asian country. Who could blame them? When living is reduced to survival alone, who has time for thoughts of patriotism and duty? When they march through muddy rice paddies and huddle in a drizzling rain, waiting to move out and engage the enemy; do they think of liberty? Do they think of freedom when every step they take could detonate a mine? Probably they are thinking about things "back home" and wondering if they will see home again; perhaps they are thinking about the next leave they will get and how they will spend it. They may sometimes wonder if people even care that they are there. Of course their families care, but do we care? Yes, we mouth sugar-coated platitudes about freedom, democracy, and patriotism, but we do not realize that some may never come back. Many will return with battle scars; others with emotional scars which only the passage of time can heal.

They are there; and we are here -- safe, secure, and apathetic. Let us remember that because they are there, we can continue to be safe, secure... and apathetic. The next time you hear the statistics of casualties and fatalities in Viet Nam, try to care. The dedication is not meant to be mawkishly sentimental or melodramatic. It is meant to show appreciation of our own fighting men.

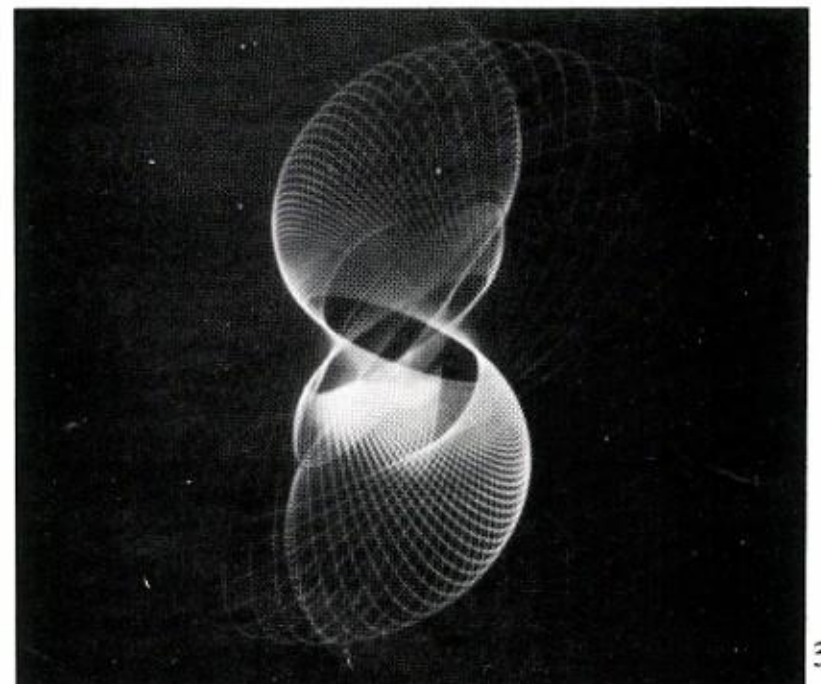

To those, the Comanche County servicemen in Viet Nam, we care, and dedicate the 1968 Arrowhead to you.

Foreword

The three known dimensions of the tangible world are height, width, and depth. Automatically a yearbook has two of these; they are the physical characteristics of height and width. A good staff, however, strives to give its yearbook a special quality which sets it apart from the routine annual. This quality is depth. Not literal depth, but literary depth. Words and pictures, which when combined together, capture the spirit of an elusive moment -- a moment which is deeply a part of us and helps make us what we are.

The 1968 Arrowhead Staff sincerely hopes that we have given you all these things and, possibly, a little more. Perhaps in a few inspired seconds, on a page at random, we gave you the fourth dimension -- that intangible "something" which goes above and beyond mere height, width, and depth, and lifts a yearbook into the realm of greatness.

During the 1967-1968 school year, Comanche High has been the scene of numerous activities. It has seen social, scholastic, and athletic events. But most important of all it has seen countless students pass through its halls. For some, this year has been exciting and wonderful; for others it is merely a place to mark time, waiting to get away. This year has not been all that some expected; for others it has been more than they bargained for. In this school students have experienced happiness, success, and friendliness; despair, failure, and enmity. Regardless of the emotions which this book has captured for you, remember the bad times as well as the good. Remember the good times if you can, and the bad times... if you will.

Graduation... The Sadness of a Happy

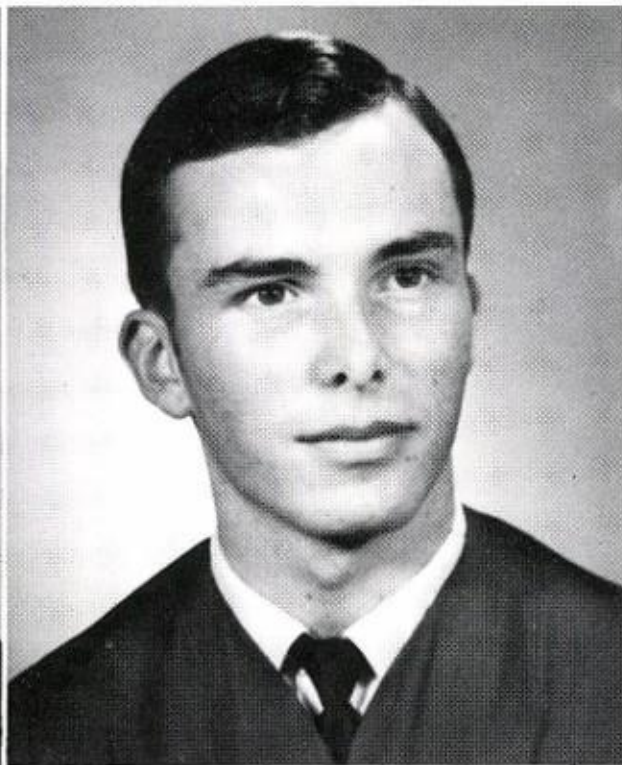

As we the Seniors of 1968 prepare to graduate, the realization comes that never again will we be a whole group, bound together by the common ties of school life. We will each go separate ways, some to greatness, some to mediocrity, some to failure. And while class reunions may bring us back together, it will never be the same. The class spirit which we possess now will be lost forever as each senior devotes himself to living in the world, the real world, the one which we have been hearing about for four years.

Some may doubt that we have been a united class or that such a spirit exists. We seniors have indeed disagreed in certain areas. But despite internal struggles, the 1968 Senior Class has always presented a solid front to outside problems. Factions have opposed each other in the class, but in the final analysis, we are unquestionably bound together by a feeling of loyalty.

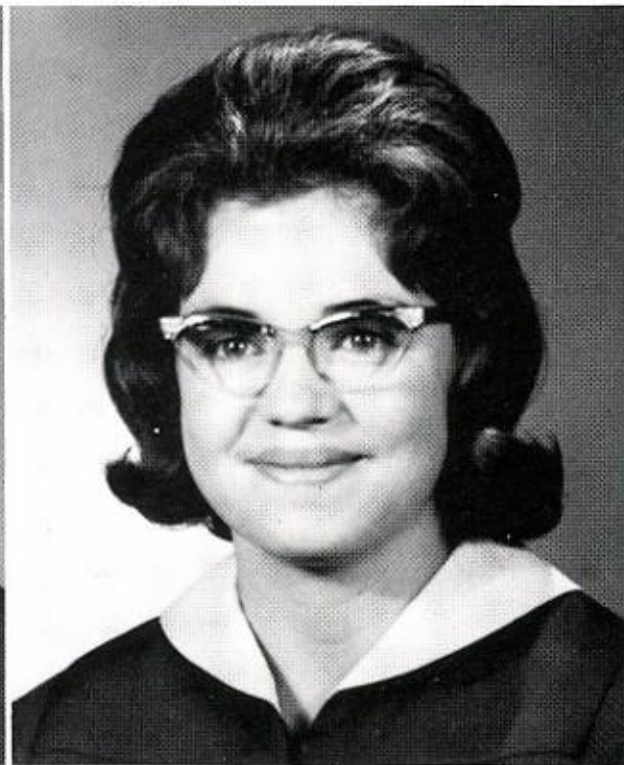

Years from now we Seniors will look back to our high school days. There will be a note of pride in our voice when we speak of those days and think about the events which we took part in. Time may dull our memory and cause us to gloss over the sharp edges of school life, but we will always think of our class as the best that ever walked through the halls of Comanche High School, not necessarily because we were the best, but because we were our own unique group.

When in doubt---

Is it true Clyde Weaver has a SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL POLICE bumper sticker...but isn't using it? Ask him.

This is a graduate of charm school with honors in finger dexterity? Check with David Ripley.

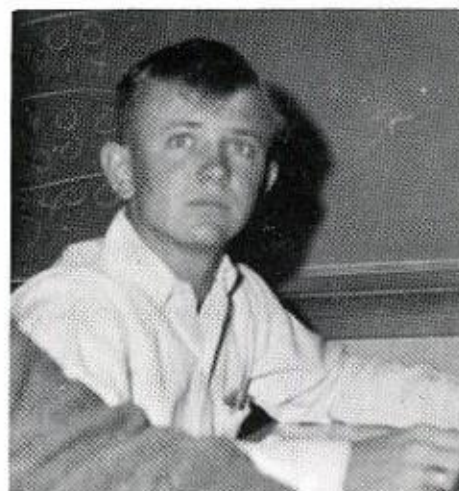

Jodie Prater is showing Harry Cloud her ring. Isn't she? Ask her. Better yet, ask Harry.

The work of the student body president is strenuous and demanding. Ask Jack McDonald?

One should always have a checkbook on hand. Ask Harold Gresset. (See page 128 for details.)

Chanel 5 is the sweetest smelling perfume in the world. Right Jane Cotten?

School is a nice place to visit... sometimes. Ask Vicki Coufal.

Being editor of an annual is a position of all-powerful authority. Don't ask Carolyn Foreman, ask Mrs. Maxine Martin and Mr. Leon Douglas.

Ask a Senior

What's so great about MACBETH? It's those unforgettable lines of Lady Macbeth. Ask Paula Lee.

Spiking punch at a school function is unforgivable, but tasty. Ask Karen O'Brien.

Motorcycles rank second in importance only to the creation of the earth. Right Dan Grimmer?

????? Ask Jerry Ellis.

Have Banquet, Order Rings,

And, --- --- Wait for '69!

Juníors End the Year With Príde

As we look back on our Junior year, we may think that we have accomplished a great deal. We shall always have some great memories of this year. We can remember the banquet we gave the seniors, the work and pride we took in it. We can remember the money that we earned at the concession stands; the calendars that we worked so hard on to make money for the banquet.

Now as we face our last year in Comanche High School, we are approached with a new and different kind of responsibility ---that of becoming young men and women and acting as such.

We all will have a certain place in our memory for the year of '67-'68 when we were the "Juniors" of Comanche High School.

Life at C.H.S.

A collage of black and white photographs capturing various moments of student life at C.H.S. The images are arranged in a non-linear fashion, with a large central photo of a student with a wide-eyed, open-mouthed expression. Other photos show students in classrooms, hallways, and outdoors, engaged in activities like studying, socializing, and participating in events. The collage includes photos of students in various settings, such as a student in a library, a student in a classroom, and a student in a hallway. The photos are of different sizes and are arranged in a way that creates a sense of a busy, active school environment.

"Stop or I'll shoot!" warns Bobby Womac.

David Tankersley, Royce Lubke, Ken Cattles, and Kim Cockerham are four of the condemned who will be hung at the rising of the sun.

"Duh, I thought I saw a pussycat!" cries Gaylen Fletcher.

Vicki Gaines gives Sue Cox a boost off on her trip to Mars.

"Now listen here, fella. I'm the boss around here and don't you forget it!" threatens Casey Bradshaw.

"One of these days I'm going to climb that mountain," wishes Arnold Gutierrez.

"Yes, I'm the new star of SEX AT SCHOOL," says Julie Pinkerton

"Now should I say 'Dearest' or 'Dearest Darling'?" wonders Amy Burks.

"Maybe if I turn here I'll lose Patti. I know I'm irresistible but I don't like people following me," thinks John Rachels.

"But, Vicki, I've already said 'Cheese'," exclaims Rodney Robertson.

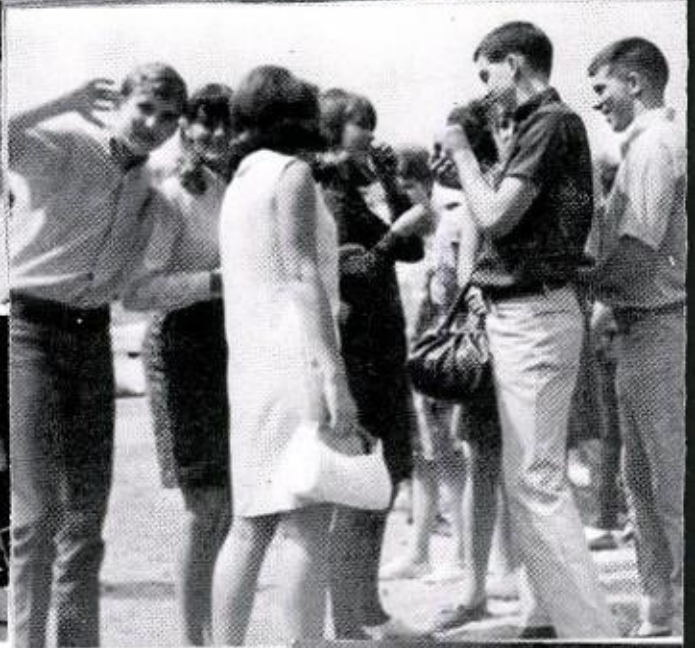

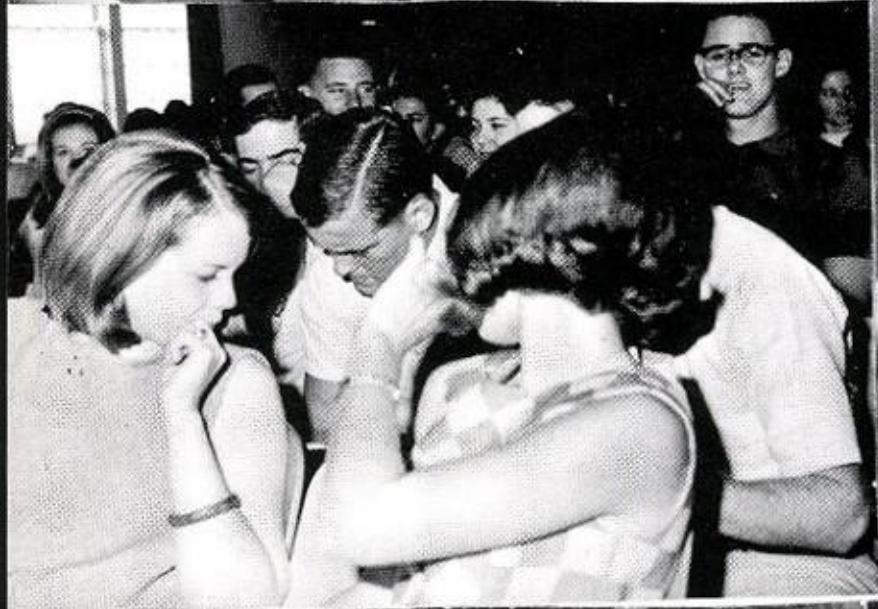

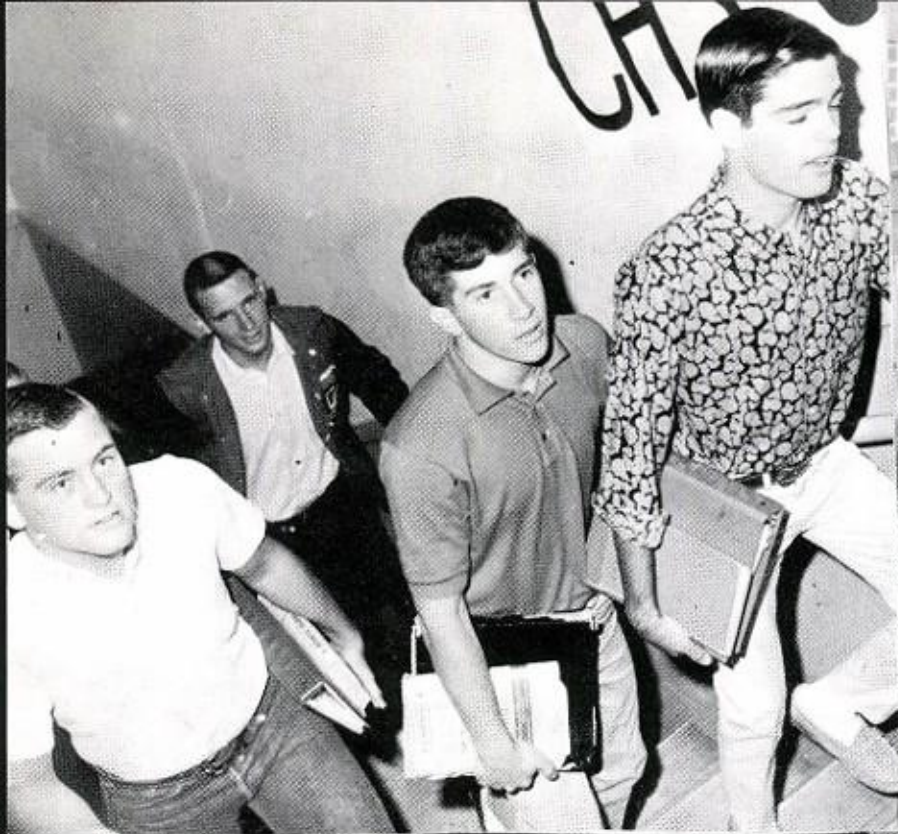

"Gee, that fingernail tastes good!" comments Stanton Reese.

"If I turn my head you can get my dimple," offers Marion Kirkland.

The Ola Cunningham Chapter of the Future Teachers of America, sponsored by Miss Jewel Werner, is celebrating its twelfth year as an organization at CHS.

This chapter has been recognized as an outstanding one in the state; and this year the Comanche Chapter was privileged to host the District Convention.

The Convention consisted of over two hundred FTA'ers from all over District XI. The theme was Invest, Innovate, Improve in the field of education. Not only did the local chapter host one of the best District XI Conventions, but it succeeded in having one of its members elected to a 1968-69 district office. Vickie Croft was elected District Historian.

Also the club had its annual candy sale, Teacher Appreciation Week, and other social and community events.

Officers of the National Honor Society are Karen O'Brien, vice-president; Lynn Kibler, secretary; Sallie Huffman, reporter; Keat Wiles, president; Jerry Ellis, treasurer; and Jimmy Harelík, student council representative.

Rev. Grady James of the First Presbyterian Church was guest speaker at the November 20 induction.

The NHS fall inductees were Tom Wiles, Gary Easley, Lou Rogers, Sue Rogers, Max Parker, Billy Williams, Judy Gleaton, and Sarah Fletcher; Carol Stewart, Connie Maxwell, Oleta Ellis, Carol Carney, Carol Byrd, Cheryl Horton, Beverly Tupin, and Avlyn Speck.

At the November meeting, NHS members gathered to hear Thanksgiving comments given by Rev. John Wiles of the First Baptist Church.

The National Honor Society is made up of students who are outstanding in character, scholarship, leadership, and service. This year the NHS had three main projects: a Christmas basket for a deserving family, sending two girls to Girls' State, and sponsoring the Youth Council. Their activities included a fruitcake sale, two inductions, and many interesting programs. It was a very pleasant and beneficial year for NHS members.

Social Clan of the Intellectuals

Mrs. Maxine Martin, for the third consecutive year, has served as sponsor of NHS and done much toward furthering the high aims of the organization.

to the Literary World

Comanche High School is proud of its excellent library which is rated one of the best in the state. Information on almost any subject is available to all students. Miss Nobia Dunn and her assistants work hard to keep the library running smoothly and efficiently.

The CHS Library Club had a full and exciting year beginning with the initiation of new members in October. The seventy-five members of the club and their sponsor Miss Dunn held a rummage sale, bake sale, and other projects to raise funds for the club's activities. In March, several girls and Miss Dunn attended the TALA Convention in McAllen and brought back many good ideas for furthering the work of the club. The year closed with a party honoring senior members and the presentation of a gift to the library.

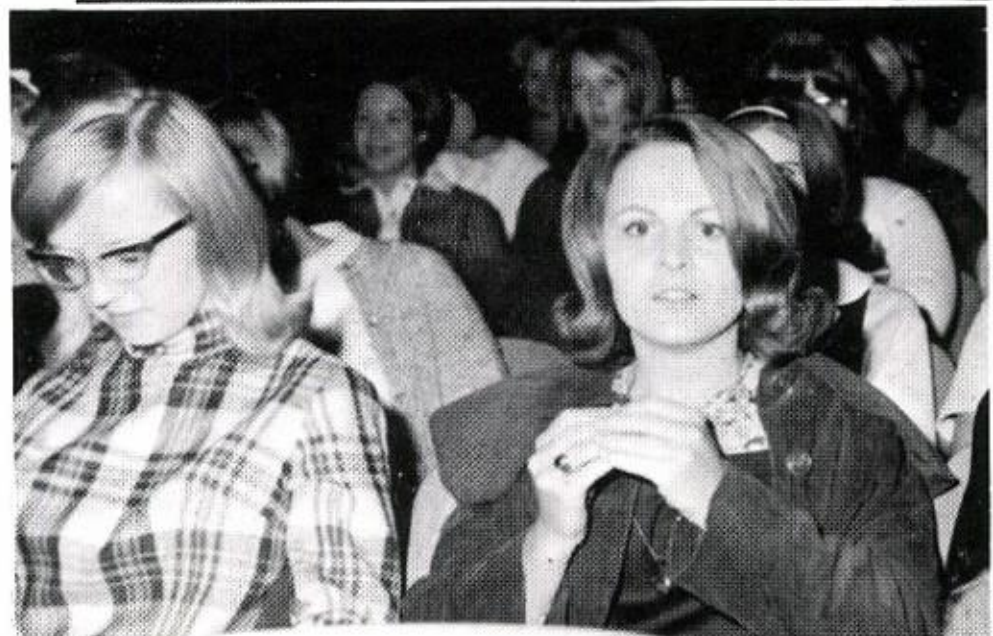

Lynn Kibler, working at the charging desk in her spare time, checks out a book for Mollie Robertson.

The library showcase is often used to display student hobbies, collections, or other objects of interest. This collection of antique dolls belongs to Connie Maxwell.

Whether enjoying refreshments at a party or listening to a program, the interest of the members is usually captured at a Library Club meeting.

Future Homemakers Prepare to

The Future Homemakers of America is not just a club in the usual sense of the word; it is an organization which is an integral part of the Homemaking Department. Co-sponsored by Mrs. Kathryn Hill and Mrs. Charles Beason, the organization had an activity filled year beginning with a luau held for incoming homemaking students.

The annual Hobo Day was held to raise money and the new tradition of slave day followed that project.

FHA also sponsored a bus to the State Fair which afforded forty homemaking girls an opportunity to see cultural exhibits and enjoy fair amusements.

Another fund raising project sponsored by FHA was the mum sale during Homecoming Week. Each girl applied the money she made selling mums to her Beau candidate; a candidate from each class had been selected in an earlier meeting.

In December nine FHA girls attended the Make It Yourself With Wool Contest and several of the girls received recognition for their garments. Judy McCorkle won second place in the Junior Division and attended the state contest.

Also in December, a Christmas party was held for preschool children; this was done to create greater interest in the Child Development Unit in homemaking.

In February the "Heart of Fashion" style show was held which featured garments made by second, third, and fourth year homemaking girls.

Also in February, FHA officers and other FHA members attended the Area IV meeting in Stephenville. Comanche participated in the degree ceremony, election for area offices, and the registering of guests.

Throughout the year, FHA had monthly meetings with challenging, informative programs concerning all aspects of the field of homemaking.

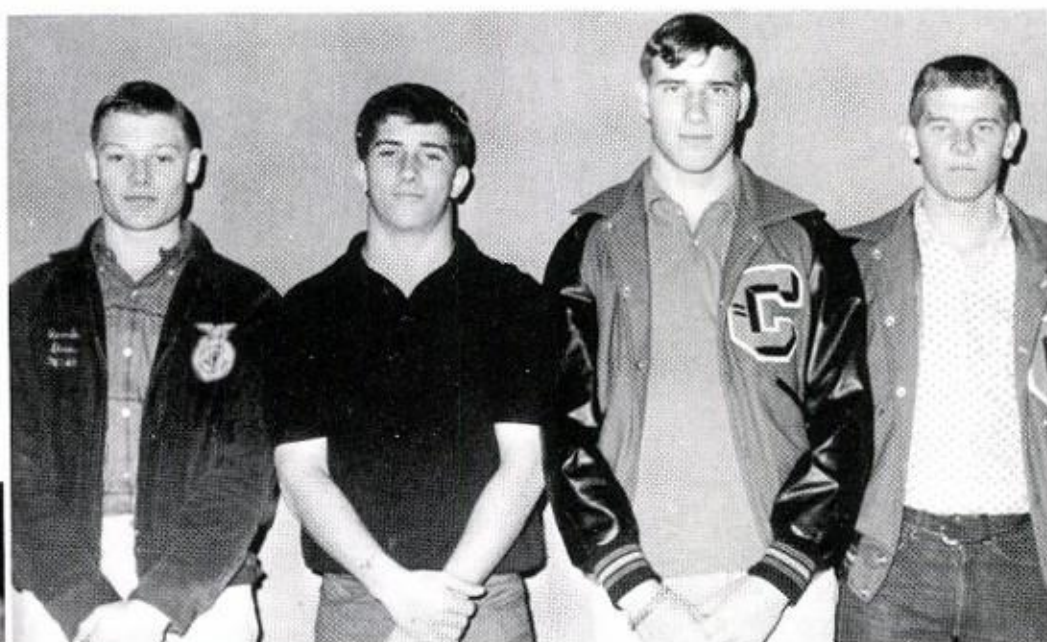

Mrs. Katherine Hill and Mrs. Charles Beason, the hard-working sponsors of FHA, work diligently to promote interest and appreciation of homemaking and related careers.

Mrs. Ailene Moore, home demonstration agent from Lone Star Gas Company, presented a program on the "Bells of Christmas".

Co-sponsoring the Comanche FFA chapter are two very capable men, Mr. T.J. Davidson and Mr. Archie Boyd. They try to work with the boys to help them to become better and more responsible young men.

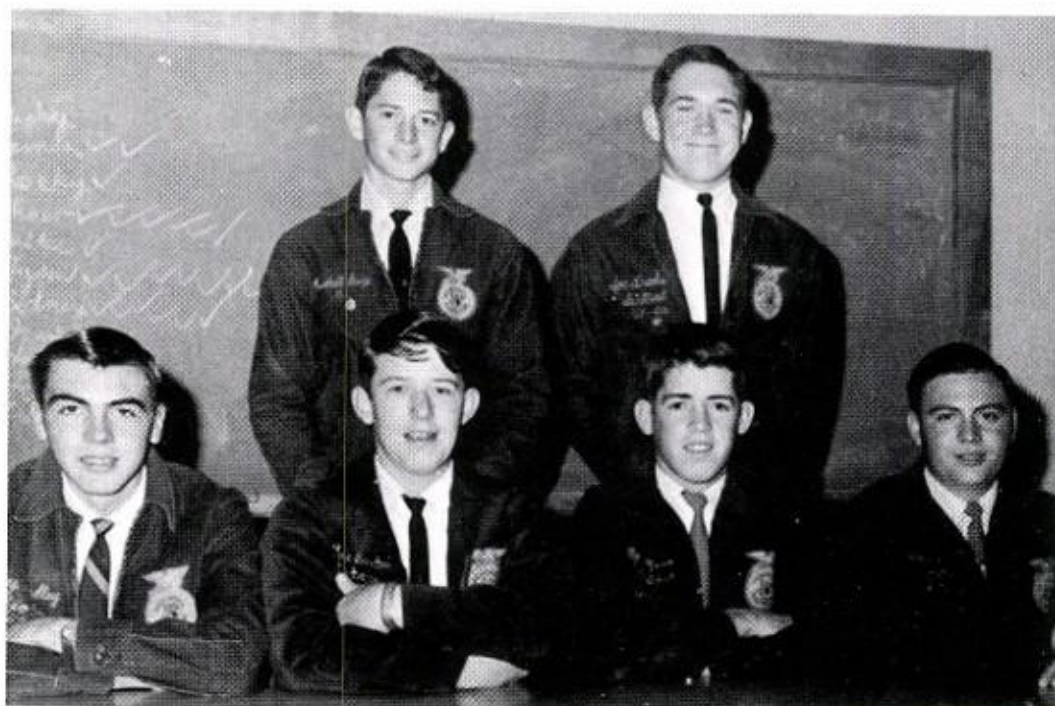

Composed of the agricultural students of CHS, the goals of FFA are high:

To develop competent, aggressive leadership; to strengthen the confidence of the farm youth in themselves and in their work; to encourage and practice thrift; and to participate in cooperative effort.

Advisor and sponsor of the Warrior is Mrs. Pallie Palmer who has experienced many years as both the former and latter. She is a very qualified person to see that the paper is out on time.

Editor of The Warrior is Gay Waggoner. She has proved invaluable to the staff as a worker and advisor.

Lynn Kibler served as associate editor. Working closely with the staff, together they created new ideas for the paper.

If you have read any high school society news, it was the work of Janie Grayson who is the society editor of The Warrior.

Sometimes when those impossible days came, the smiling face of Cheryl Horton brightened the day. Also she proved worthy of being the sports editor.

If you have seen someone around, pen in hand, it was more than likely Gale Carpenter. She is a reporter for the Warrior staff.

Another hard-working reporter was Sharon Beaty. Among other things she collected club news and activities for use in the school paper.

Indians Strive

Football is a tradition at Comanche High School. From this tradition the players achieved the initiative and desire to do their best in the best way they know how. It has been a long time since the Indians have had a 7-3 season record, and it looks as though they are on the rise. The experienced lettermen coming back next year should make the season interesting. We cannot completely replace the seniors that have graduated this year; they were the ones who led the others to victory. In Comanche football does not depend upon the players entirely; the school spirit and backing of the team gives the players a feeling of security. The 1967 Comanche Indian football players are well justified in feeling that they have accomplished a great deal for their school.

It was a long night for the Indians on October 27. The Indians traveled to Eastland to play in a game which they were slightly favored. The Indians started off well. They got inside the 5 yard line twice in the first quarter but could not get across the goal. Then Eastland recovered an Indian fumble in the end zone for a TD. They led at half-time 7-0. They scored 4 more TD's and the Indians only one. The Indians led in the statistics but they could not make the score.

Activated Action

Batman (Joy Moya) and Robin (Jimmy Kirkland) make their daily round preventing crime in C.H.S.

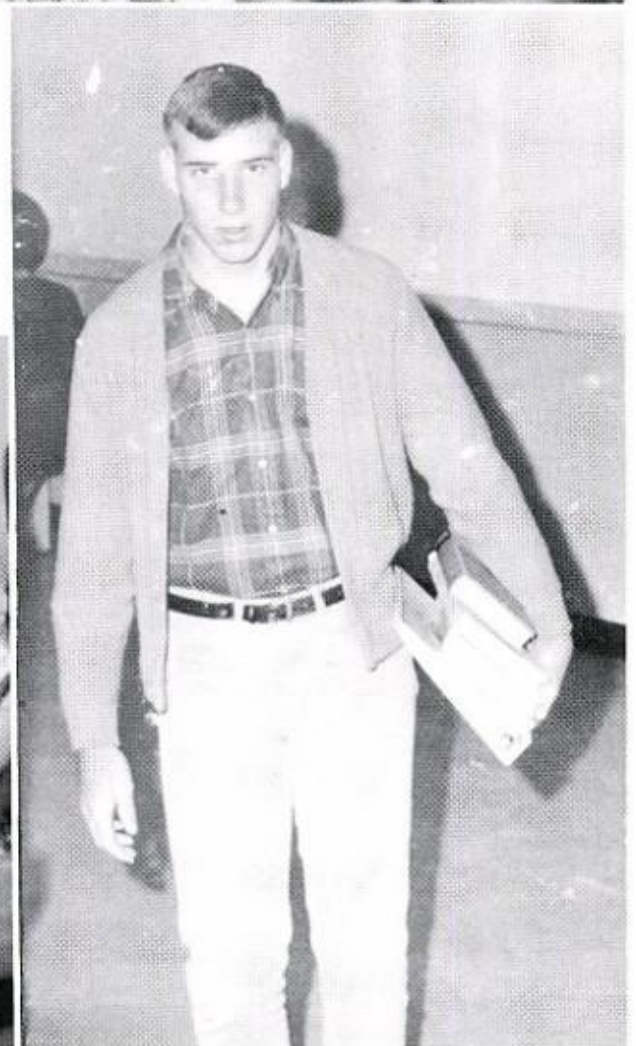

"Doesn't she ever stop talking?" wonders Vicki Coufal about Tony Kennedy.

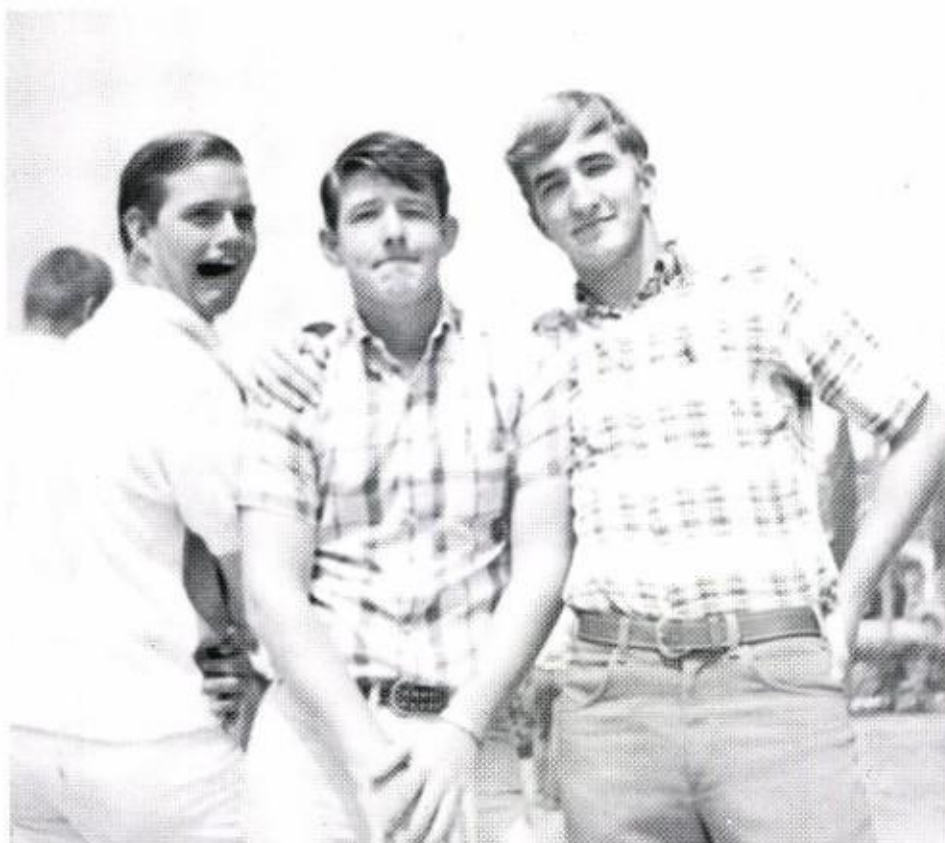

"Hot Chihuahua! We're having tamales en de cantina!" exclaims Arthur Woodruff.

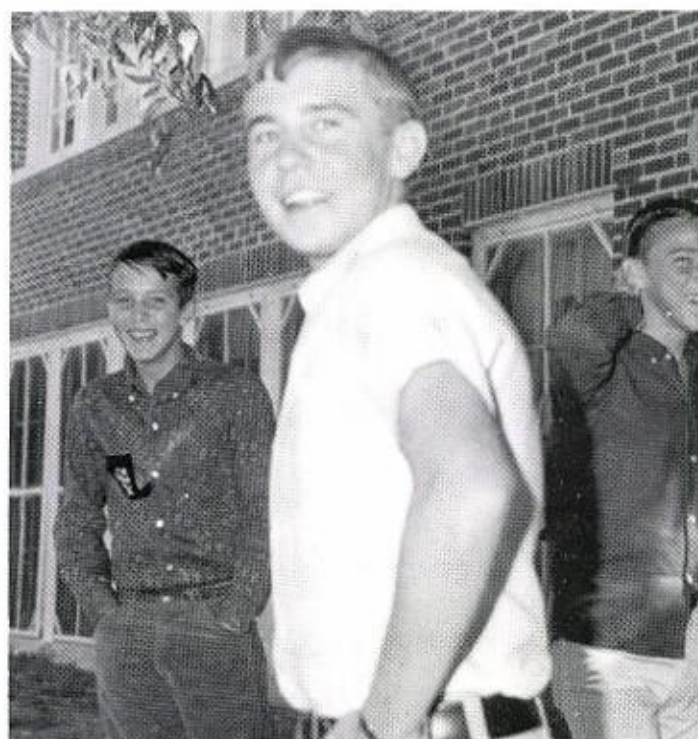

"Martha, do you realize if we go up these stairs five times a day for 179 days this year we climb 20,585 steps," comments Sue Cox.

"Oops, wrong way!" says Rex Plumlee.

Tyson Clemons, George Burton, Chris Evridge, Sylvia Moya, Alice Taylor, and Judy Kemp line up for a quick game of Red Rover during recess.

Far From the Madding Crowd...

1967-68 Board of Education

Members of the 1967-68 School Board are Mr. S.H. Fletcher, Mr. L.L. Dukes, Mr. Sid Carney, Mr. Clyde

Williams, Mr. Eltos Dudley, Mr. Wayne Stewart, Mr. Bill Parker, and Mr. Bill Clemons.

An Open Letter to...

Mrs. Maxine Martin:

Since we could not dedicate the entire annual to you, (for reasons you yourself outlined), we decided to do the next best thing. We have set aside various portions of the annual for you, and you alone. This half page is dedicated expressly to you. We would have given you an entire page of glory--a whole nine dollar page--but you might have given us one of "those looks" before cutting off our collective heads. Also, we have dedicated to you the title of page two.... only the title, though. (Don't forget that bone of contention). And last but not least, page one hundred and eight is a special one for you. We hope you will remember, Mrs. Martin, these pages for their underlying, symbolic meaning.

Also, we on the staff wish to thank you for being such a good sport as advisor. Thanks for putting up with those days when ideas were "sick" and work was nonexistent. Thanks for sweating blood with us, wondering how we were going to meet those deadlines and pay our bills. But we did it, and we hope we can step back and say it was worth it.

This little niche in the annual is from us to you; it is to show our appreciation, admiration, etc. If we have committed the unpardonable sin of being sticky and sentimental, please forgive us, but . . . we like you

Sincerely,
The ARROWHEAD STAFF

In Appreciation

Many times in the making of an annual there are persons, businesses, or organizations who go unrecognized although they play a vital part in getting the yearbook to press. These people contributed necessary equipment, time and advice; in doing so, they gave us the most important thing of all---their support. We of the ARROWHEAD Staff wish to extend to those people our deepest appreciation, for without them we could not have made this annual. Listed below, in alphabetical order, are those people.

The Best

The best years of your life that's how the old cliché goes which describes those teenage years spent in high school. Funny thing though, it's always an older person who tells us this. In fact, he seems to be trying to convince us it is true. Maybe we don't believe him now, but give us twenty or thirty years---perhaps even ten, and we will probably agree with him.

Time pushes us along and sometimes uses an ungentle hand. Almost before we realize it, we face the responsibilities of tomorrow. The tomorrow which seemed an eternity away back in high school. We are thrust into our own future by the passage of time. How we spent our yesterdays, and how we spend our todays determine how we will live our tomorrows.

This book is a record of many yesterdays which, although only a small portion of a life, did much toward shaping that life. In the years to come, look back in this book and remember those years in which everything from black despair to pure ecstasy was experienced. Then think back ---- The best years of my life? The best years.....
